In this project I learned how to get the equation for the volume and was able to partially get through the code that determines quantity, percent and total stock value.